MONDAY, JAN. 16, 1854

THE FIRST PAGE.
The Hallowell Gazette states that Mr. V. D. Pinkham, of Augusta, having secured the contract for carrying the mails from Augusta and Waterville to Bangor, has recently purchased the entire stage property of Joseph Shaw, Esq. of this city. This property embraced one hundred and twenty-five horses, with carriages and harnesses in proportion, and sold for $34,000 dollars. The contract took effect on the 1st inst.

Mr. Shaw has also, we learn, disposed of his stock in another line for about $20,000. His labors have been appreciated by the public, in the speed and comfort with which he has conveyed his passengers, and he returns from the field with a handsome fortune. His first grand lift was in the express business during the Aroostook War, and he has continued to keep up the character of his teams and to provide the best of coaches—never buying a mean article, but generally having his carriages made to order and of the first class.

The Gazette says that Mr. Pinkham is now the largest stage proprietor in Maine, owning, in addition to this purchase, the entire distance between Bangor and Calais, and a large amount on other lines. If he sustains the good reputation Shaw's Line has secured in the hands of the late proprietor and proves as successful throughout his enterprise in winning the patronage and applause of the traveling public, he will deserve to be christened the Napoleon of stages. Since the opening of the A. & K. Railroad the travel on this line between Waterville and Bangor has been immense, and the uniform commendation secured by agents, drivers, and all connected with it, is most conclusive testimony to the excellence of its management in meeting the wants of travelers. If the proprietor has been equally successful in pocketing the profit, he may be said to be running and hanging up his whip, satisfied that he is in ahead of time.

The New England Farmer says of the President's message, that it cannot but express surprise and regret that the recent message contained overlooked the most important interest of the nation—that of Agriculture. This great pulsant underlies and sustains all others, and yet, in this document, deliberately written and pretending to touch all the leading interests of the people no allusion whatever is made to it. We find it stated, that, "taking the last census as the basis of calculation, there are at this time about six hundred millions dollars' worth of live stock in the United States. Their value exceeds that of all the manufacturing establishments in the country, and also, exceeds the capital employed in commerce both inland and foreign. And yet Agriculture is not acknowledged as having existence in our pursuits."

The Augusta Age is getting to be rampant on the subject of the organization of the State government—to make up in froth and gas what it lacks in the solid matter of right in the case. It brings in the proceedings of the Massachusetts Senate, where there was a question to act, as a sample of the manner in which it would have the few members elect of the Senate of Maine, transact their business without a quorum. In the case of Massachusetts, they were a Senate. In the case of Maine there is no Senate. In the case of Massachusetts the Senate could act on all proper matters of legislation, but in Maine the base is quite different, and the action of the members is necessary limited for want of a quorum.

The papers speak very enthusiastically of Louis Auer of the Imperial printing office at Vienna, who has invented a new mode of producing from natural objects, from flowers for instance, plates which serve to be printed from at once. He places a flower or a leaf between a lead and a copper plate, and by means of pressure obtains upon the leaden plate a perfect impression of the delicate parts of the object. These plates serve as a matrix for an elastic substance like gutta serena, from which an electrotype is made which is used to print from. One of our fellow-citizens of New York has done more than this, he takes from a copper plate engraving on paper, an impression upon gutta serena, from this electrotype he makes an electrotype of an elastic plate, from which he prints and produces an exact copy of the original.

John M. Wood, Esq. of Portland, has recently contributed three hundred dollars to the Ministry at Rome, in that city, for the relief of the necessities of the poor. He has also, contributed the sum of three hundred dollars to the Fire Relief Association. There is true benevolence and good sense in a man dispensing his charities, during his lifetime, when he can see the good which his benevolent acts will do.

Signs of Progress.
A telegraphic despatch was received in this city, on Saturday last, stating that the House of Representatives had sent a message to the members elect of the Senate informing them that a convention would be formed on Tuesday next for the purpose of electing Senators, from among the Constitutional Candidates to fill the vacancies in the Senate.

Wm H. Chaney, Esq., has retired from the editorial chair of the Ellsworth Herald which he has filled for the eight months past, and the duties of which have impaired his health. He declares that he wishes to make no further effort than he can do in the editorial profession, and hence the change. The Herald hereafter to be conducted by the publisher, R. Couillard, Esq.

It is reported that the Wild cat portion of the Eastern Council declare that they will refuse to have the oath of office administered to Senators that may be elected on Tuesday next. If they wish to try that game in the way of trying the wheels of government, let them do it still take the consequences.

The Ellsworth Herald states that Barlow Hall, a lad of fourteen years of age, belonging to that town, recently shot two Moose at one shot, all of his hunting expectations being gratified for about twenty dollars.

Festival of the Sons and Daughters of Maine.
We have received a full report of the proceedings at the Festival of the Sons and Daughters of Maine now resident in Lowell, Massachusetts, held in that city on the second instant, at Huntington Hall. A large company were in attendance, and the hall was beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion. Around the hall were the names of the several companies of Maine with the population of each affixed, while interspersed were appropriate mottoes, sentiments, pine trees, and other decorations, &c., the whole making a very imposing appearance. A good band of music was in attendance.

The company assembled at an early hour in the evening, and spent some time in making acquaintances and in reviving pleasant memories of the Old Folks at Home. They then repaired to the table, where a bountiful and well-attended dinner was served by Rev Mr. Spaulding. After partaking of a rich repast, the President of the evening, Nicholas G. Norcross, the Timber King, formerly of this city, called to order, and directed attention to an intellectual treat.

He tendered the compliments of the season, and thanked the company for the honor conferred upon him in being called to preside over the assembly. He extended the hand of welcome to the invited guests, and then spoke of the State of Maine.

Notwithstanding we have made it our ancient Commonwealth our home, and have become help-refering, we are made in our native State, and describing her many natural advantages, and the almost unequal scenery and beauty of the country, and, above all, we cannot but be the equal social condition of the people, and I will venture to say that, taking a mass of about five hundred thousand of her inhabitants, the State of Maine, stretching from the banks of this continent, and of course, in the world, a people where wealth and equal social enjoyments are so universally distributed, not having instances of extreme wealth nor of extreme poverty. If I should be called upon to say what portion of Maine bears off the palm, I would assign it to the valley of the Kennebec, where the people are so well off.

I have referred to the scenery of Maine, which is very beautiful and striking. The Penobscot Bay and River, from Owl Head to Bangor, a distance of seventy miles inland, presents a grandeur of appearance, a ruggedness of aspect, and a beauty of scenery, which I have never seen, bounded by the wide sea. The scenery of the interior is much more imposing. Her lakes and mountains, lying back of her settlements, present a view much more imposing than the White Mountains, the country being comparatively level from the seaboard to the base of Mount Katahdin, which rises about five thousand and five hundred feet above the level of the sea, and presents to the South, a front of twelve miles.

The Penobscot River passes from the upper thousand feet high on each side, and presents, for three miles, the appearance of a mighty excavation for a railroad. Maine, containing an area of thirty thousand square miles, after sparing ten millions of acres with Great Britain, equals all the rest of New England, and with her vast extent of sea-coast shores, affording means for ship building, manufacturing and fishing, not to be equalled by any two States in this Union, and must finally become one of the most wealthy States in the world, and the people being of the most enterprising character, and her climate favoring them, will soon stand at the uppermost rank among these States.

The extensive system of railroads already partly in operation, while the whole system is being pushed forward, will constitute a vast source of wealth. We have separated ourselves from our relations and former associates to form new relations, and, although we can most sincerely say to the Old Bay State, we love Maine more. We are not independent of each other although divided by conventional lines, we form one harmonious whole, and this spirit should strive to cultivate, and the modern mode of traveling is fast obliterating these lines and having the effect of assimilating our people. Maine being a part of Massachusetts in the portion of the Revolution, furnished a larger part and helped with her blood and treasure of the $135,000,000 which it cost to establish the institutions under which we are protected this night around this festive board, and fully entitled to her share of the honors, for giving to us and thus glorifying country the position we occupy.

Now, to maintain these institutions, we hand them down unimpaired, education forms the basis and must be maintained with care and diligence. Education consists in all the practical and all the branches of business, in our country, branches. Thus we all that is necessary to protect us against decline. It is not necessary that these young men and young women should neglect their daily labors to obtain an education. It can be done in their own private home, and by their own friends, aided by the light of their candles, and by a judicious use of the property of political questions as the most able students we have, not because they know as much, but because they are more interested by the influence of the day.

No one of intelligence can help observing the rapid rise among mechanics since the formation of a government. They furnish all the plans and are the basis for the vast improvements in the world, and control the capital of the globe. Even old England has conferred the highest honors upon some of her gifted mechanics. The road is open and the way will walk therein, and it is a wise provision of our Divine Creator that this, our happy land, has been thus honored.

Should like to follow out this subject, but must close. Now, to the old Bay State I would say, you have been keeping many of the objects of love and affection of our beloved Maine, and methinks I can see many of the fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters and friends of these Sons and Daughters of Maine looking towards us and saying, "Guard well these, our jewels."

Looking over this vast assemblage of young men and women of Maine, I am reminded, of an expression of General James W. Wilson, formerly of New Hampshire, now of California, in a political speech, in Charleston, in 1840, "I present you with a specimen of the Granite State." So I would say to Massachusetts, we have present you with a specimen of the Eastern Star.

The Daughters of Maine.—The Morning Gloucester, New England.
They lay the rough paths of peevish nature even and open, and your hearts a little heaven.
The next regular toast was—
The First Festival in Lowell of the Sons and Daughters of Maine—Extremely successful, and hundreds here can testify, may it be followed by many similar occasions.

The third regular toast was—
The President of the United States—Although New Hampshire gave him his birth, Maine gave him his education and his wife.
The fourth regular toast was—
The Sons of Maine—To be found all over the world, on sea and on land, on quarter deck and in legislative halls, on the beach and in the pulpit, in the woods and out of the woods—wherever found, honored and respected.

J. J. Judkins, Esq., responded and concluded with this sentiment—
Our Native State—Occupying about one-half the surface of New England, she furnishes more timber, builds more ships, has more sea-coast, contains more beautiful islands on her coast, has more bays, lakes, and inlets, more of minerals, more athletic, industrious, and enterprising sons, more loved and revered fathers and mothers, more virtuous, intelligent, and captivating daughters, than any other State in this glorious Union, may her exports never cease, and a ready market always be found for her products.

Music by the Band, and the fifth regular toast followed—
The Daughters of Maine—As mothers, we delight to honor and reverence them, as sisters, to love and cherish them—everywhere and always hallowed in our memories and affections.
S. C. Shapleigh, Esq., made a happy response and offered as a sentiment—

Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad, the Mammoth of the East—Suggested by the enterprising Sons of Maine, nurtured by them in adversity, prosecuted by them against powerful opposition, and by them triumphantly completed, offering to the world the most convenient grand traveling trunk of the age.

The sixth regular toast was—
The City of Portland—The most beautiful city in New England. Railroads and transit lines most navigation are destined to make it the most prosperous.
The seventh regular toast was—

The Clergy—Humanity, Freedom and Religion place their hope in the devoted pastors of our churches, may they never weary in their good work.
The eighth regular toast was given, as follows—
The Press of Maine—By its constant vindication of the great principle of the American Constitution, by its unwavering loyalty to Justice, Liberty and Law, and by its untiring labors for the full development of all the physical and mental resources of the "Pine Tree State," it has proved itself to be not only the legitimate descendant, but also the honorable rival of the press of Massachusetts.

Charles Cowley, Esq., of the Journal and Courier, responded in a speech highly complimentary to the Press of Maine and to the State and its people.

E. W. Barker responded to the call for Oxford county.

The ninth regular toast was—
The City of Lowell—Next to the place of our birth we respect and admire the citizens of the city of our adoption, where Art has wrought such miracles.

No response. Music by the Band, and the tenth regular toast—Aroostook County—Famed in the annals of history. The valley of Madawaska has made it as celebrated as the three battle grounds have Middlesex.

Z. E. Stone, Vice President for Aroostook, was called for, and responded in a humorous speech, and closed with this sentiment—Aroostook—A bright link in the boundary chain of our great republic—may the frosts of discussion never sever it.

The toastmaster read the eleventh regular toast—
The President of the Evening—He has brot from his native State, by rolling track unknown in these parts, and justly gained for himself the title of the Lumber King.

The President responded joyously. After alluding to the mediocrity of speaking of himself, and the reluctance he felt at being called to do so on any occasion, he proceeded to entertain the audience with a recital of his labors in the forests of Maine and New Hampshire. The company receiving his anecdotes and reminiscences with much merriment and repeated cheers.

The twelfth regular toast was—Massachusetts and Maine—The mother and the daughter, thirty three years of separation have not weakened the bond of consanguinity. Maine, and the following volunteer toast by Mr. H. Freeman.

The Sons and Daughters of Maine—May they ever meet and part in friendship.
T. Tibbets, Esq., for Lincoln county spoke of the characteristics of that county, and closed with the following sentiment—

State of Maine—Daughter of Massachusetts, the worthy child of a noble parent, impetuous, brave, enterprising, energetic and persevering, and imperishable be the bond of union, friendship and kindly feelings ever existing between mother and daughter.

The toastmaster gave—
The Homes of our Childhood—They live in our memory green, and can never be forgotten. Addresses were made by several other gentlemen, which we have not space to mention at length, and various sentiments were given of which the following are samples.

By A. W. Buttrick Esq. Sons and Daughters of Maine by birth residents of this city of dreams of life, our part may be performed, let us "act well our part, there all the honor lies."

By Mr. Alden B. Buttrick Esq. Sons and Daughters of Maine—The Sons I know but little about, having tried one of the Daughters, I pronounce them "first rate."

By Samuel A. McIntire Esq. The President of the Evening—Like his merchandise made of the most solid, straight and clear timber, without a knot, neither wormy, winding, nor cross grain.

ardent, energetic, and self-denying—always able to be useful.
Various letters were read, and the whole matter passed off very satisfactorily to all concerned, and the benefits and enjoyments were so numerous that the festival is likely to become an annual affair.

Intentions of Marriage.
The Statute in relation to the publication of intention of marriage in this State was modified in 1852, and the following extracts from the law will show what is now required of those intending to be joined in marriage.
"All persons resident in this State, intending to be joined in marriage, shall cause notice of their intention to be entered before their marriage, in the office of the Clerk of the town, or plantation in which they may respectively dwell."

"The Clerk shall deliver to the parties a certificate under his hand specifying the time when notice of the intention of marriage was entered with him, which certificate shall be produced by the minister or magistrate in whose presence the marriage is to be contracted, before he shall proceed to solemnize the same."

"If any Justice of the Peace or minister shall knowingly and wilfully join any persons in marriage, contrary to the provisions of the Statute, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars."

"Whenever parties living in this State shall go out of it for the purpose of having a marriage solemnized between them, and they shall return to dwell here, they are hereby required to enter a certificate or declaration of their marriage with the Clerk of the city, town, &c. in which either of them lived at the time, within seven days after their return under a penalty of $10."

ANNEXATION OF THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.
The Washington Star thus notices Mr. Washburn's speech, made in the House a few days ago, and which has appeared in our columns on the question of annexing the Sandwich Islands to the United States.

Mr. Washburn's speech delivered yesterday, told with power and effect on the House, and should be republished everywhere. His defence and support of the great leading Whig principle of a conservative and prudent management of the United States, will make for it many friends among those who have of late been listening to the parrot cry, that its aim is only to hold back for the sake of a dung heap. It is well, indeed, if the country will ponder seriously on what he said concerning the work of development and improvement of hope, before it runs away after the strange goose more strange territory. We are not among those who dread the acquisition of foreign territory, or who object to it when coming in the natural course of things—yet, we are emphatically for the thorough improvement of all the latent means of national and individual prosperity which we have already at hand. This was the point of much of his speech. The next was a powerful showing of the value which the Sandwich Islands will prove to the United States, as a territory of acquisition at the right time, and in the right way.

REPORT OF THE LOWELL MISSIONARY LADIES.—The annual report of Rev. Mr. Wood, the Minister at Large in Lowell, was read on Sunday evening in the South Congregational Church of that city. It states that as regards the present condition of the town of Lowell, there is reason for joy, thankfulness and hope. Never before, probably in a single year has the condition of the needy been so ameliorated. It alludes to the continual tide of emigration from that city to California and the West, and to the numerous tendency of early marriages, which are becoming so frequent as to prove a source of great anxiety and agitation in the city. Mr. Wood says that there is a plan for the institution of a Savings Bank, wherein any amount of money exceeding the sum of five cents may be deposited by school children in Lowell, on passing a check of about 750 scholars. Each of these schools is kept two evenings in a week for a period of four months in the winter season, and they have been productive of an incalculable amount of good. More than half of the scholars are foreigners, and a large proportion are operatives in the mills.

THE MECHANIC.—It is strange that laboring men do not think more of the vast usefulness of their tools, and take a benevolent pleasure in them on this account. One would think that a carpenter or mason, on passing a house which he had reared, would say to himself, "This work of mine is giving comfort and enjoyment every day and every hour to a family, and will continue to be a kindly shelter, a do-gooding gathering place, an abode of affection, for a century and more after I sleep in the dust, and ought not a general satisfaction to spring up at the thought!"—Channing.

THE VALUE OF A GIFT.—Gifts are taken as tokens of something greater than ourselves. They are a brief expression of something deeper in life, bonds of affection, truth and charity of the We do not measure gifts by their monetary value. It is not the transfer of so much available property from ourselves to others. We feel that a great deal more than itself comes with it, while yet it remains behind for us in the heart which sends it, your store of gifts, hoarded up from year to year, your well-kept rich—the stores of sentiment and affection which they represent are beyond all price.—Rev. Dr. Putnam.

THE ONLY PEOPLE THAT HOPE ARE THE POOR. The rich live in fear. Reduce a man to one pair of trousers, and his view of humanity will be as buoyant as a cork. Make him a millionaire, and he will worry from year to year and to another. Every gale of wind will not only sink his vessels, but his spirits, and the same sea will swallow that only breaks the nap of the shingle loofer, filling the mind of the rich man with fear and trembling for the stock he owns in some insurance company.

There is a tree in Mexico called the chuyal, a very fine wood, which becomes petrified after being cut, in a very few years, whether left in the open air or buried. From the timber, houses could be built that would in a few years, become fire proof, and last as long as those built of stone. The wood in a green state is so worked, is used in building wharves, forts, &c., and would be very good as railroad sleepers, or for plank road stringers.

A Roman newspaper states that six stones, on which are painted representations of various incidents in the voyage of Ulysses, as related by him to Alcinoos, in the Odyssey, have been recently discovered beneath the ruins of some ancient temple, and that the city of Lestrigeon, where the hero was so severely treated, was no other than the Roman city of Tarentum of modern date.

There are now eleven daily newspapers published in San Francisco, and others are contemplated. This is more than New Orleans, which has a population of one hundred thousand people, and supports, and in all probability it is more than San Francisco will be able permanently to maintain.

A little girl about eight years old, named Keller, fell upon one of the iron lines in Rockland, one day last week, and she so severely burned that she died on Sunday last.

his Cement which has been proved to be of strength will be particularly useful in family, the simple manner of its application is a recommendation. The adhesive property which it contains is so wonderful that many will rather break their heads than they have been awarded, with it. The various purposes for which they are to be used are so numerous that it would be difficult to recite them. For instance in reading Glenn's Life, we are surprised to find a very ordinary degree of heat affecting it, and the joints are scarcely perceptible, articles of kind may be made useful for years, which otherwise would have been cast away.

one is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were used. No person can feel well while a costive habit is used.
body prevails, besides it soon generates serious and dangerous diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative.
This is akin to the use of Cold, or of a good purgative Bilious derangements. They all have the same effect, they all produce the same symptoms, and produce the deep seated and formidable diseases which load the bowels all over the land. Hence a far famed Family Physician as the first appointment to the public health, and as the first person perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand, is an extensive trial of his virtues by Physicians, Professors and Patients, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond what were they not substantiated in persons who were not suspected of charlatanage as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are grateful to refer for these facts, are

FRANCIS VALENTINE MOTT, the distinguished Sur-

DOCT. A. A. HAYES, Practical Chemist of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Massachusetts.

DR. C. C. MOORE, M. D., an eminent Surgeon and Physician, of the City of Lowell, who has long used them, in his extensive practice.

DR. C. S. SACKETT, Esq., one of the first merchants in New York City.

DR. C. A. DAVIS, M. D., Sup't. and Surgeon of the United States Marine Hospital, at Chelsea, Mass.

It is a permit, could give many hundred testimonials, but all persons who have used them, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these eminent public men is shown in the following extracts.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical the drugs themselves, but of the individual nature of every vegetable remedies, extracted by chemical process, in a state of purity and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This is the reason why the same medicines have been found to be the Chiropractic Pectoral Remedy in one case, a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition every medicine is burdened with more or less of secondary medicinal qualities, in this, each individual virtue of the drug is preserved for its effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind; the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effect should prove as the bare

As it is frequently expounded that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowledge of my composition, I have supplied the accurate formulae by which both my Pertussis and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If houses of refuge should be ever

One who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known. Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject, freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral is pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action — remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting wherever any exist such derangements as are the first or sign of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

For minute directions, see the wrapper on the Box.
